[REDACTED] Ed Proctor would like to have us determine what kind of a job this will be, what we can do in conjunction with the DD/S&T, what the timing will be, etc. He would also like to have us draft a very simple reply for Jack Smith's signature noting that we will undertake the job, perhaps noting that we can't answer all of the questions as well as he might like, that we will supply him with the information as it becomes available, and that we will have [REDACTED] get in touch with his man, Wollenberg.

Can we get together on this the middle or latter part of next week.

Mr. R. J. Smith
Deputy Director for Intelligence
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Mr. Smith:

My staff will submit to the forthcoming CCP Review an analysis of the objectives and resources needed for [REDACTED] This analysis will consider alternative means of collection, alternative rates of implementation, potential value of information collected, tradeoffs between collection and processing, and current resources which might become duplicative.

Our analysis is directed at one of the questions the DCI raised in his letter of October 28, 1966, to the Secretary of Defense. In that letter he asked "What should be the planning assumptions for [REDACTED] operations, in consideration of the estimated impact of [REDACTED]"

25X1

Our preliminary analysis indicates that [REDACTED] can be significantly influenced by the rate at which a Soviet system becomes operational and on the characteristics of the system. [REDACTED]

Also, it would be useful if these projections included estimates of uncertainty and of intelligence lead times.

Enclosures A and B include some of the questions which I believe need to be addressed. I have asked the Director of the National Security Agency to address the questions listed in Enclosure B. Answers to these should be useful in completing the studies defined in Enclosure A. I am also sending a copy of these questions to the Director of the Defense Intelligence Agency for his possible contributions to this work. Would you let me know when answers can be available? It would be helpful if information were supplied as it becomes available. I plan on submitting my analysis to the CCP by June 20, 1967. For this matter, my point of contact is Dr. William J. Wollenberg on Code 11, Extension 57988.
